CREED

I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth,
of all things visible and invisible.
I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ,
the Only Begotten Son of God,
born of the Father before all ages.
God from God, Light from Light,
true God from true God,
begotten, not made,
consubstantial with the Father;
through him all things were made.
For us men and for our salvation
he came down from heaven,
and by the Holy Spirit
was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man.
For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate,
he suffered death and was buried,
and rose again on the third day
in accordance with the Scriptures.

He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father.
He will come again in glory
to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end.
I believe in the Holy Spirit,
the Lord, the giver of life,
who proceeds from the Father and the Son,
who with the Father and the Son
is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets.
I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church.
I confess one Baptism
for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead
and the life of the world to come. Amen.

WELCOME, SUMMER VISITORS! St. James is proud to welcome visitors from near and far throughout the summer months. Each week a drawing for a special Cathedral gift will be made from among all the visitor envelopes used. Please write your address on the visitor envelope provided in the pew and drop it with your offering into the collection basket. Thank you for adding to the power of our prayer by your presence in our midst today. You are most welcome in this holy place! Last week, we had visitors from Jersey City, NJ; Orange, CA; Duncan, BC, and many other places. The winner of our drawing was from Loganville, GA.

CATHEDRAL PAINT AND REPAIR You may have noticed that a significant paint and repair project is taking place in the west nave of the Cathedral. In the 18 years since the Cathedral was renovated, there has been some water damage at the upper level and normal wear and tear at the lower level. Some gifts from generous parishioners have made it possible for us to take on this project.

FLOWERS AT THE ALTAR are from the Saturday wedding of Angela Rassilyer and Travis Greenfield.

SATURDAY 5:30 CHOIR We welcome back to St. James the men's chant choir, Peregrine, Bill McJohn, director.

CAMINO SEATTLE IS UNDERWAY! You can collect your stamps for the week at coffee hours after the morning Masses, or in the Bookstore following the evening Masses. Also: t-shirts are back in stock in the Cathedral Bookstore! www.stjames-cathedral.org/camino.

ANNUAL CATHOLIC APPEAL We are still $36,368 short of reaching our Annual Catholic Appeal goal for the year. This past week, a final mailing went out to those who have not yet responded. If you have not yet made a donation, please consider doing so today! The need is urgent! Visit www.seattlearchdiocese.org/aca to make a gift or pledge online.

CAMINO STORY NIGHT Join us on Tuesday, July 17 at 7:00pm in the Cathedral Chapel, for an evening with pilgrims who have walked the Camino to Santiago de Compostela. They will share the highlights (and the low points!) of the experience, and talk about the spiritual meaning of the pilgrimage as well as some of the practical ins and outs. If you are considering doing the Camino, or if you just want to travel vicariously, this evening is for you. There will be plenty of time for questions and answers as well.

PARISH REMEMBRANCE Throughout the year, because we are the Cathedral Church, we remember in prayer at Mass and Vespers each of the parishes and missions of the Archdiocese of Seattle on a Sunday near their feast day. This week we remember in prayer the parish of St. Bridget in Seattle and the Carmelite Monastery of St. Joseph in Shoreline.

Dear Friends,

We have long been aware of problems with the Cathedral's sound system. It is a large building with huge challenges when it comes to sound delivery and clarity. Over the years we have spent very large sums of money to improve and upgrade the system and many of you have expressed appreciation for the improvements. Nonetheless, we are aware that problems persist and are committed to doing everything possible to address them.

This weekend, at the conclusion of each Mass, we will all take a moment to fill out a simple, brief survey on the sound system. Your input will be very helpful.

Thank you in advance for your participation.

CAMINO SEATTLE

Camino Seattle is a five-week walking/hiking and prayer event for St. James Cathedral Parish, beginning June 24, 2012 and ending July 29, 2012, the Feast of St. James.

STAGE FOUR: LEON

The city of Leon started out as a Roman military garrison about the middle of the first century AD. In later centuries, the city was the site of many battles between the Spaniards and the Moors, and its architecture shows a blend of many styles. Since the Middle Ages, pilgrims stop at the Real Basilica de San Isidoro where the relics of Saint Isidore of Seville are venerated. Saint Isidore was a seventh-century Archbishop of Seville, renowned for his holiness and learning. He is credited with the authorship of the first encyclopedia, and is venerated as the patron saint of the Internet! The Cathedral of Leon is especially noted for its magnificent stained glass windows.

Reflection: Halfway There

We are halfway there. It can be a weary time for the walker, knowing that there is still a long way to go. The first enthusiasm is over, and perhaps the scenery is getting repetitive. We don't stride along – we just put one foot in front of the other.

There are halfway points in the spiritual life as well, when the joy seems to evaporate, and worries prey on us instead. In the guest book at a refugio along the Camino, someone wrote these wise words: "Worrying is praying for what you don't want."

What worries weigh you down as you walk today? Can you let those worries go and concentrate on the present, and the gifts God has given you, just for today? Who most needs your prayers at this midpoint of the journey?

Leon Parador. Photo by Rev. Dr. Sandy Brown. Be sure to visit the Cathedral Chapel for an exhibit of Dr. Brown's photographs of the Camino.

Medieval advice for Pilgrims

If perchance you cross this land in summertime, guard your face diligently from the enormous flies that greatly abound there and which are called in the vulgar wasps or horseflies; and if you do not watch your feet carefully, you will rapidly sink up to your knees in the sea-sand copiously found all over. (p. 91)

Prayer for Today (Thérèse of Lisieux)

My life is but an instant, a passing hour;
My life is a moment that escapes me and flies away.
You know, my God, that to love you here on earth
I only have today!
What does it matter to me, Lord,
if the future is uncertain?
If I dream about tomorrow, I fear my inconstancy,
And my heart grows sad and weary.
My God, let me endure my trials and sufferings
Just for today.

Joy and Hope in Christ: Vatican II

Part 13 in a series

July 15, 2012

This year, 2012, marks the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the Second Vatican Council, which began on October 11, 1962, and closed on December 8, 1965. Throughout the year, we mark this milestone anniversary by celebrating the Council, and exploring its teachings through bulletin inserts, lectures, and a variety of special events. You'll find this entire series at the Cathedral website, www.stjames-cathedral.org.

The Council and Christian Unity

Christian Unity was one of the primary themes of the Second Vatican Council. Pope John XXIII announced the Council on January 25, 1959, following a service marking the end of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, and his opening address to the Council was called Toward Christian Unity. Pope John XXIII spoke of his desire for unity among Catholics, unity with non-Catholic Christians, and "unity of esteem" among Catholics and non-Christians.

Pope John was building on more than half a century of slow but sure progress in this area. The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity had begun in 1908, and had soon spread around the world. But Catholics were wary. In the Catholic view, Protestants were thought of as schismatics (the Orthodox or Anglican) or heretics (other Protestants). Catholics were forbidden to enter a non-Catholic church, even to attend a funeral, and weddings between Catholics and non-Catholics, while permitted, could not take place in the church—they usually happened in the rectory or the priest's office.

In 1927, Catholic theologians were invited to participate in an ecumenical gathering at Lausanne in Switzerland, but were forbidden to do so. "The union of Christians cannot be fostered otherwise than by promoting the return of the dissidents to the one true Church of Christ, which in the past they unfortunately abandoned," wrote Pope Pius XI in 1928 (quoted in Keys to the Council, p. 150). This severe approach began to thaw under Pope Pius XII, who allowed Catholics to participate in ecumenical meetings, where they learned from their non-Catholic colleagues, and formed friendships that would bear fruit at the Council.

While the Council did produce one document, Unitatis Redintegratio, which dealt specifically with relations with non-Catholic Christians, ecumenical themes emerged again and again in the various constitutions, declarations, and decrees. For example, Dei Verbum, the Constitution on Divine Revelation, encourages the joint preparation of Biblical texts and translations "by a common effort shared by our separated brethren... the resulting works can be used by all Christians" (22). And Lumen Gentium, the Constitution on the Church, paved the way for genuine ecumenical efforts in its acknowledgment of the good that exists outside the Catholic Church.

In 1960, Pope John XXIII appointed Cardinal Augustin Bea as the first leader of the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, a newly-established office in the Roman Curia. Cardinal Bea had a profound impact on the Council's teachings in the areas of ecumenism and inter-faith relations.

The Decree on Ecumenism builds on the teachings of Lumen Gentium. Christ established one Church, and we believe that one Church to "subsist" in the Catholic Church. But, "some, even very many, of the most significant elements and endowments which together go to build up and give life to the Church itself, can exist outside the visible boundaries of the Catholic Church: the written Word of God; the life of grace; faith, hope and charity, with the other interior gifts of the Holy Spirit, as well as visible elements. All of these, which come from Christ and lead back to him, belong by right to the one Church of Christ" (3). In other words, in spite of "defects," especially around acknowledgment of the See of Peter, the Eucharist, and the other sacraments, especially Holy Orders, we acknowledge that "the Spirit of Christ has not refrained from using them as means of salvation." Having made this important acknowledgment—which was unthinkable only a decade earlier!

—the decree goes on to speak of the practice of ecumenism, recommending shared prayer, though that sharing cannot yet be sacramental; thorough study of each other's traditions; joint missionary work; and clear exposition of Catholic teaching as means towards achieving Christian unity.

A careful distinction is made in the document between separated Churches in the East and in the West. The Eastern (Orthodox) Christians, having retained the apostolic succession and the sacraments, are to be considered as "sisters" (14), and the document points to the beauty of their worship, and the great tradition of the Eastern Fathers, as sources of enrichment for the Church in the west as well.

Before the end of the Council, Pope Paul VI showed how seriously he took the call to ecumenism. On December 7, 1965, at the solemn closing of the Council, he and Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople simultaneously lifted the bans of excommunication which each Church had imposed on the other, a first step towards understanding. As a Protestant observer remarked, "if the Church is able to express its regret for the past with such ease and humility, anything is possible."
